WHO: Carl Camden, president and chief executive officer, Kelly Services.

DETAILS: The following commentary is offered in advance of the February unemployment rate announcement due Friday from the U.S. Department of Labor:

"The economy is displaying slight signs of vulnerability, but remains steady overall due to a resilient job market. The unemployment rate remains low and there is a continued demand for permanent employees across all market sectors.

"There is a tremendous amount of job churn occurring in the workforce. The trade-off between new hires and separations in the workforce creates resurgence and ultimately strengthens the economy.

"We expect the labor market to remain tight, and hiring projections indicate the next few months will produce solid numbers. Highly-skilled, credentialed professionals will produce the majority of job growth in the months ahead."
