

Kelly Healthcare Resources Receives Employer Recognition Award from The American Board of Occupational Health Nurses

February 25, 2004

TROY, MI (Feb 25, 2004) -- The American Board for Occupational Health Nurses, Inc. has named Kelly Healthcare Resources as the recipient of its Employer Recognition Award. The award is presented annually to one employer that demonstrates recognition and support of certified occupational health nurses.

"Our dedicated employees comprise the core of our business, and we applaud them for their ongoing commitment toward the advancement of their professional growth and development through the pursuit of certification programs," said Carla Perrotta, vice president and general manager, Kelly Healthcare Resources.

"We are pleased to recognize Kelly Healthcare Resources because of its varied and sustained support of credentialing in occupational health nursing," said Jamie Boseman, RN, MBA/MHA COHN-S/CM, FAOHN, chair of the American Board for Occupational Health Nurses. "It is gratifying to see the value they place on this type of professional certification."

The purpose of the American Board for Occupational Health Nurses, which was established as an independent nursing specialty certification board in 1972, is to develop and conduct a program of certification for qualified occupational health nurses.
